

THE KENNA RECORD.

VOL. 11. KENNA, ROOSEVELT COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER, 28 1917. NO. 46.

LOCAL and PERSONAL HAPPENINGS.

FOR SALE—Thoroughbred young Plymouth Rock Roosters Ringlet Strain. Price $1.50. Mail orders to Mrs. J. T. Teague, Rt. 3, Box 11, Elida, N. M.

Guy Howell went to Roswell, Saturday to spend the Christmas holidays with homefolks.

D. C. Savage went to Roswell, the latter part of last week to do Christmas shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Price Crume who teach school near Texico, are spending the holidays with relatives and friends here.

Roy Berryhill who lives south of town transacted business in Roswell, Saturday.

John Keller is having the Record sent to his brother, T. J. Keller of Kanawa, Oklahoma.

Bennie Good and Miss Setta Jones motored to Roswell Christmas day.

Ab McDowell is sporting a new five passenger Chevrolet car in which he went to Portales, Wednesday.

Bill Harris who has bought a half interest in a well drill left Wednesday for north of Elida, where he and his partner have contracted to drill several wells. May success be yours Bill.

Prof. E. R. Frost left Saturday morning for Taiban, to spend his Christmas vacation with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cowgill of the Elida Enterprise were dinner guest of their daughter Mrs. J. A. Kimmons Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Clubb returned to their ranch south of town yesterday after visiting relatives and friends here for several days. Jim had his brothers name added to our subscription list while here.

Miss Mary McLean of Olive, visited here last week.

Prof. E. R. Frost left Wednesday morning for Taiban, to spend his Christmas vacation with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cowgill of the Elida Enterprise were dinner guest of their daughter Mrs. J. A. Kimmons Christmas day.

W. P. Littlefield and Pat Boone motored to Roswell, Sunday to spend Christmas with relatives.

day to spend Christmas with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Good were hosts Sunday at a delightful Christmas dinner. The menu which included everything that goes with a good Christmas spread was enjoyed by the following guest. Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Good Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Crosby, Misses Bertha Eaves, Arka Stroud and Hubert Malone.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Good of Salt Lake ranch were shopping in Kenna and Elida Saturday.

Lem Cosby returned from Roswell, last Saturday where he transacted business.

Mrs. Lee Crosby presided over a very happy Christmas dinner at her home Christmas day.

Covers were laid for six, including Miss Josie Good, Richard Crosby, Hubert Malone, Bennie Good and the host and hostess.

J. D. White and family of Portales, were in Kenna, Thursday.

Miss Maggie Cooper and brother, Fred left for Lockney, Texas, Thursday.

A big turkey dinner with all the trimmings was enjoyed by a number of Mr. and Mrs. George Chavers friends at their home north of town Wednesday. Those present were Mrs. C. S. Wilson and family, W. A. Fry and family, Ed Lee and family, O. H. Wear and children, W. P. Littlefield and wife, Mrs. Mildred Boone and son, Pat and daughter, Alice, Mrs. T. O. Elrod, Mrs. Price Crume and Uncle Charlie Ayers.

J. T. Cary left this morning for Jenkins, to visit relatives.

Mrs. Roy Berryhill and children returned to their home south of town Monday after visiting friends and relatives at Portales, Texas, for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ty and children, T. T. Hauer, returned from a Christmas vacation in the A. T. M. Hotel, Elida, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ty and children, T. T. Hauer, returned from a Christmas vacation in the A. T. M. Hotel, Elida, Monday.

to him. Les says business is rushing him these days.

BOAZ NEWS.

M. O. Mills was a business visitor to Roswell, Monday.

Mr. B. W. Newlin and family are spending their Christmas vacation at home.

The people of this community were saddened by the death of Mrs. C. H. Bachman last Sunday morning. She passed away after an illness of about six weeks. The remains were taken to Roswell, where funeral services were held Monday.

She leaves to mourn her dear husband, four sons, two daughters and four grand children besides other relatives and many friends.

Lloyd McClish and T. Beatenbaugh were passengers for Roswell, Wednesday.

Robert Bachman was called home Sunday by the death of his mother.

W. L. L. Parker is moving from Roswell to Boaz. He will occupy Mr. Brown's place for a while.

An interesting program, a beautiful tree, and a generous treat, of candy, nuts, apple and oranges were what those who attended Miss Clarks school Monday night enjoyed.

Will Bachman of Rush Spring, Oklahoma, was called here last week by the serious illness of his mother.

MAKE MORE MONEY
With Your Poultry Through the Use of INTERNATIONAL POULTRY FOOD TONIC

You should have a large increase in the number of eggs received when International Poultry Food Tonic is given. One extra egg a month from each hen pays its entire cost and its use often doubles the number of eggs produced. It is a tonic for helping to prevent disease, to promote health, to invigorate the digestive and egg producing organs, and help supply material for egg shells.

PUT UP IN THREE SIZE BOXES. 25c-50c-1.00

PUT UP IN 25 LB. PAILS. $3.50

FOR SALE BY

When in town stop at the Kenna Hotel
Good meals, clean beds and courteous treatment at all times. Also a wagon yard for your HORSES.
J. M. Sherman, Proprietor.
Kenna, - - - New Mexico.

The Star-Spangled Banner ★ ★ ★

SOLO OR QUARTET. Francis Scott Key. 1814.

1. Oh, say can you see, by the dawn's early light, What so proud - ly we
2. On the shore dim - ly seen thro' the misty of the deep, Where the foe's haugh - ty 3. And where is that band who so vaunt - ing - ly swore That the hav - oc of 4. Oh, thus be it ev - er, or when free - men shall stand Be - tween their loved hated at the twilight's last gleaming, Whose broad stripes and bright stars, thro' the host in dread si - lence re - pos - es, What is that which the breeze, o'er the war and the bat - tle's con - fu - sion A home and a coun - try should home and wild war's des - o - la - tion; Blest with vic - t'ry and peace, may the per - il - ous fight, O'er the ram - parts we watched, were so gal - lant - ly tow - er - ing steep, As it fit - ly blows, half con - ceals, half dis - leave us no more! Their blood has washed out their foul footsteps' pol - heav'n - re - cued land. Praise the Pow' that hath made and pre - served us a stream - ing? And the rock - ets' red glare, the bombs burst - ing in air, Gave close - at - hand the gleam of the mor - ning's first beam, In full la - tion. No ref - uge could save the hire - ling and slave From the na - tion! Then con - quer we must, when our cause it is just, And proof thro' the night that our flag was still there, Oh, say, does that star - span - gled glo - ry re - flect - ed now shine on the stream? 'Tis the star - span - gled ban - ner; oh ter - ror of flight or the gloom of the grave; And the star - span - gled ban - ner in this be our mo - tor: "In God is our trust!" And the star - span - gled ban - ner in ban - ner yet wave O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave! long may it wave O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave! tri - umph doth wave O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave. tri - umph shall wave O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his
country.

Written by Francis Scott Key, on the night of September 14, 1814, while
compelled to watch under the guns of a British ship the bombardment of Fort Mifflin. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with
an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until darkness prevented
him from seeing it. During the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his country.